„I'll just go to the bakery“ never means „to a baker“, but „to the baker“ - to the bakery with the best products, the friendly staff and the specially designed ambience. And the same applies to the supermarket, the greengrocer, the butcher or the health food store. So a well thought-out and individual design is a very important factor in sales promotion: „Here I feel comfortable - here I spend a little more time. What else do I need? „After more and more traditional corner shops had to close in the mid-1970s, this trend has long since stopped. Where more and more people live and the car is becoming increasingly unpopular, these shops are experiencing a renaissance.

With 45 local suppliers from the German-speaking countries, this book shows how to cover the daily needs of food in a stimulating atmosphere and how they contribute to a livable environment.
