Design products for the future

All days for future guides us through an ecological daily routine with sustainable products. Young designers, experienced design agencies and companies present more than 90 innovative objects that show how diverse sustainability can be in everyday life.

An environmentally friendly daily routine

The day starts with getting up, looking at the sustainable clock and brushing your teeth with a brush made from recycled materials. With circular clothing on and the eco-friendly smartphone in your pocket, you head to the office on a 3D-printed bike. All days for future accompanies you through the workday, the household and after work, and presents sustainable sports and leisure products. After environmentally conscious activities and dinner from a recycled pan, the day ends climate neutrally in bed.

With a collection of products from the categories of technology, furnishings, fashion and jewelry, the world of work, leisure and Locomotion, Everyday Life for Future provides a comprehensive introduction to enriching, sustainable living.
